Film Synopsis

Leaping over the forgettable Bourne Legacy, the story finds Jason living off the grid and residing in the seedier side of the world. A life that is as chaotic as when he disappeared a decade earlier. The only thing that manages to lure him out of his self-made exile is a message from his ever reliable and faithful confidant, Nicky Parsons (Julia Stiles). She has information that will provide answers to Jason's past and details that will cause turmoil for the life of CIA director Robert Dewey (Tommy Lee Jones) and the agency. Once the information makes it out of the shadows of the internet, the hunt is on for the former agent and this well-trained hacker. Counter intelligence expert, Heather Lee (Alicia Vikander) must work to find the answers to the agency leak and determine which side of this internal war that Bourne is on. The game is afoot and both sides must travel around the world to find the answers that they are searching for before more people die.
