'Commercial success in life stems from self-discipline, perseverance and diligence. It is up to each of us to control how conscientious we are; how diligent we are; how persistent we are; and, importantly, how hard we work. These convictions have inspired me to write about my glorious ride from the family sheep station "Jumble Plains" in the far west of New South Wales to Eternity. The aim of my book is to motivate and encourage others to roll up their sleeves and have a go.'

TONY'S PRIMARY SCHOOL

A LIFE THAT READS LIKE A FEATURE FILM

Tony McLellan grew up on a sheep station mending fences and killing rabbits. It turned out to be the perfect apprenticeship for a business high-flyer who crossed the Atlantic on the Concorde as casually as most people catch a bus. A crisis in his business and family life at the age of 47 taught him the deeper meaning of achievement: The path to a truly successful life begins when you focus on serving others. A Glorious Ride is an antidote for the dismal secularism of our times and a rallying cry against despair.

Tony McLellan began his business career at age 15, managing the family sheep station when his father died. Moving to the city to study, he graduated and then spent half his working life abroad. He served as the president and CEO of a number of major international corporations, transacting business in more than twenty countries. Since returning to Australia, Tony has been elected the chairman of a number of listed public mining companies. He was the founder and chairman of Chrysos Corporation Limited, in partnership with the CSIRO. With a passion for the poor, Tony has served as a director of several not-for-profit organisations, both overseas and in Australia. He is now chairman emeritus of Australian Christian Lobby.

Nick Cater is a writer and media commentator on political and cultural affairs. Born and educated in the United Kingdom, he has been a proud Australian citizen for 30 years. He became Executive Director of the Menzies Research Centre in 2014 after a long career as a journalist, foreign correspondent and editor. His book The Lucky Culture was published in 2013. He writes regularly for The Australian, hosts the Watercooler podcast and appears frequently on radio and television.
